Ride with Pancho Villa

Our annual Ride with Pancho Villa Match will be March 2nd through 4th. Thanks to Sterling Sage for designing this year's poster. The registration form and shooters' schedule are attached as the last two pages of this issue. We need volunteers – stage and posse marshals, set-up, etc. Contact Match Director, Buck Bradley or Delta Raider (email addresses next page) if you can help before and/or during the match. If we have sufficient sign-up, there will be RO1 and RO2 classes offered Thursday. Please let Buck Bradley or Delta Raider know right away if you would like to attend. The classes will make you a better shooter, whether or not you want to run the timer. Buck and Delta

Raider have also asked me to remind everyone that only those who register in advance will get a pre-printed match badge. We will be having a silent auction that is just not possible, please send an email to Delta Raider or Buck Bradley telling them what you will be donating. Proceeds will be used to defray the cost of the match and for club expenses, including range maintenance and upgrade, monthly prizes and other operational expenses. Thanks in advance. We also need some building materials: plywood, full sheets, half sheets, 1/4" or bigger that will be installed below the screens at loading and unloading tables to help with splatter below the waist. We could also use some additional screening. Finally, we have decided to shoot a night stage Friday night just for fun – no scoring. For those who have 'em, bring those black powder hogs. Whether or not you shoot black powder, we guarantee you will have a hoot shooting at night.

Long Juan Here!!

After a little fog to start the day, we had GREAT weather for the January shoot, with sunny, bright blue skies and temperatures in the upper 60s and low 70s. It absolutely could not have been better! Forty-two shooters in three posses competed in 19 different categories. Phantom wrote the scenarios, which again were interesting, competitive and fun to shoot. Now we have folks complaining about targets that are too close AND targets that are too far away. That must mean Phantom is doing something right.

CLEAN. Complete results are on page 8. Thanks to G.T. Sharps for sending me some of the pics you see in this issue. Thanks to Kitchen Kate for making great five-bean soup for lunch. I saw more than one person going back for seconds. And then we finished with Blue Bell ice cream, cookies and fresh fruit. It can't get much better. Congratulations to Boosey Babe, Boon Doggle and Drifter, all of whom found Chuck in the puddle last month. Others made good, but incorrect guesses. Let's see who can find Chuck this month. He's in one of the pics – I promise!

Ethics & Values Matter!!

The Cowboy Code

I have yet to meet anyone involved in western action shooting who does not live by the Cowboy Code, Code of the West or whatever you want to call it. I certainly try. I hope you will share what it means with your friends, your co-workers and most importantly your children and grandchildren. The following article is quoted from the cowboylibertarian.com.

Headline – Fox News – February 10, 2011 Why the Cowboy Code is Not Frivolous

by Patrick Dorinson

"A man's got to have a code, a creed to live by, no matter his job." -- John Wayne

The other day the Montana State Senate passed SB 216 sponsored by rancher and Senate President Jim Peterson. The bill is simple and direct and it doesn't cost the taxpayers a dime. SB 216 would adopt The Code of the West from the book "Cowboy Ethics" and make it the official Montana Code. "Cowboy Ethics" was written by James Owen, an investment professional who after Enron and the other Wall Street scandals of a few years ago, decided it was time to take a good look at what we had become as a society and individuals. Like me he has a great deal of respect and admiration for the iconic American cowboy and the cowboy way of life. He came up with his "Code of the West" which states some simple common sense principles that not just cowboys but all of us should try to live by. The code includes admonitions such as "Live each day with courage," "Be tough, but fair," "Ride for the brand," and "Know where to draw the line."

Montana Governor Schweitzer has said he will veto any frivolous legislation. I guess he consider ethics "frivolous." He wants the legislature to focus on important things like jobs and a budget shortfall. He's right that those things are extremely important. But the ethics and values deficit in this country is just as important as the fiscal and financial deficits. If life is just about dollars and cents then we are in bigger trouble than I thought. Somewhere along the line we forgot these basic values and replaced them with a self-centered "grab all you can and forget the consequences" attitude and situational ethics.

Children cheat on tests and think it is not only okay but is a path to success. In 2002 a study by Rutgers University found that cheating was rampant and in many cases accepted behavior among students. The director of the study said "I think kids today are looking to adults and society for a moral compass and when they see the behavior occurring there, they don't understand why they should be held to a higher standard." If that is how our young people see the world, Lord help us. One student said, "I actually think cheating is good. A person who has an entirely honest life can't succeed these days." Another student in the survey said, "What's important is getting ahead. The better grades you have, the better school you get into, the better you're going to do in life. And if you learn to cut corners to do that, you're going to be saving yourself time and energy. In the real world, that's what's going to be going on. The better you do, that's what shows. It's not how moral you were in getting there." She was 17 at the time and by my ciphering she would be around 26 now. With an attitude like that she should run for Congress.

I can't imagine things have improved since 2002 and my guess is that they have gotten worse. Some politicians cheat on their wives. If a man will cheat on his wife what do you think he will do to the folks who elected him? Bad behavior in public life will more likely land you a book deal, a reality TV show or a spot on Oprah than the consternation of society. You want proof? Disgraced former New York Governor Eliot Spitzer romped with hookers and he now has a television show on CNN. By the way, hookers are now called "escorts" and they have become a part of mainstream popular culture thanks to Spitzer and actor Charlie Sheen.

And while the collapse of the housing market has many causes one big one was that some unscrupulous lenders approved loans although they knew the borrowers could not afford them. By the way, the borrowers also knew they couldn't afford them as well and now some of them just walk away from their obligations. Now that's a great example for the kids, isn't it?

Some folks might say I'm "naïve" or "old fashioned" or that "times have changed and I need to get with it" whatever "it" is. Maybe so, but when a nation forgets the values that made the country strong and discards its ethical compass as "outdated" that nation could be at its end. And if not the end, you sure as Hell can see it from here.

Code of the West from Cowboy Ethics: What Wall Street Can Learn from the Code of the West by James P. Owen

- 1. Live each day with courage.
- 2. Take pride in your work.
- 3. Always finish what you start.
- 4. Do what has to be done.
- 5. Be tough, but fair.
- 6. When you make a promise, keep it.
- 7. Ride for the brand.

- 9. Remember that some things aren't for sale.
- 10. Know where to draw the line

"Life is just a bank. You can't take out any more than you put in."

Tom Lawson (Tom Mix) in Rustler's Roundup (1922)
from Western Movie Wit & Wisdom by Jim Kane

"Why, by God girl, that's a Dragoon! You're no bigger than a corn nubbin, what're you doing with all this pistol?"

"It belonged to my father, he carried it bravely in the war, and I intend to kill Tom Chaney with it if the law fails to do so."

"Well, this'll sure get the job done if you can find a fence post to rest it on while you take aim."

TRUE GRIT 1969 - John Wayne & Mattie

What's it mean? Dragoon

by Long Juan

The word dragoon originally meant mounted infantry, who were trained in horse riding as well as infantry fighting skills. Dragoons evolved from the practice of transporting infantry by horse when speed of movement was needed. During the 18th century, dragoons evolved into light cavalry units and personnel. The name has been retained in modern times by a number of armored or ceremonial mounted regiments.

The Colt Model 1848 Percussion Army Revolver or "Dragoon" is a .44 caliber revolver designed by Samuel Colt for the U.S. Army's Mounted Rifles ("U.S.M.R."), also known as "dragoons." It was the answer to a number of problems with the Colt Walker, including the Walker's large size, the Walker's propensity for cylinders to explode and the Walker's habit of dropping the loading lever upon discharge, locking up the revolver action.

The Dragoon had a shorter cylinder, preventing its overloading with black powder (50g v. 60g for the Walker), a shorter barrel (7 ½ inches v. 9" for the Walker), lessening its weight, and a latch instead of a spring to hold the loading lever. More than 18,000 Dragoons were produced.

The Dragoon appeared just as the Mexican-American War was drawing to a close. Too late for use in that conflict, the Dragoon became popular among civilians and the military during the 1850s and '60s. Dragoons were originally issued to the U.S.M.R. in pairs, which were carried in pommel holsters on a saddle. Both military and civilian forces valued the man-stopping qualities and accuracy of the weapon.

The Colt Dragoon was produced in several variations. Eli Whitney, Jr. manufactured the first run of 1848 Dragoons for Colt at his Whitneyville factory in Connecticut. These Dragoons used left over Walker parts and were known as "transition" Walkers or Whitneyville Dragoons. First,

Second and Third Model Dragoons followed between 1848 and 1860, when the Colt Model 1860 revolver replaced it. Differences between the First and Second Models were minimal, with the most obvious being the shape of the notches on the cylinder (oval on the First Model and rectangular on the Second). The V-type main spring of the First Model and early Second Model Dragoons gave way to a flat leaf mainspring. The Third Model offered an option to attach a shoulder stock and folding leaf sights and featured a rounded trigger guard instead of the square-back design on the earlier models. All three models of the Dragoon have an unfluted cylinder, which bears an engraved scene of a battle between soldiers and Indians. Cylinders may also bear the inscription "U.S. DRAGOONS" or "MODEL U.S.M.R."

Famous users of the Dragoon included Joaquin Murietta, the California bandit, Union general George McClellan and fictional Mattie Ross in the 1969 version of "True Grit." Mattie carried a Walker in the more recent film version. The Dragoon is a collector's item and sells for high prices in the thousands of dollars. Uberti produces good replicas distributed by Cimarron Firearms, Taylor, Inc. and others.

The western expansion of America's frontier in the 19th century created the need for a powerful, reliable and fast-shooting weapon.

Colt started down the road to satisfying this need with Paterson and improved the Walker. Colt took the next step with the Dragoon. During the 1850s, the Dragoon was probably the finest military arm available. It was replaced only when technological developments allowed Colt to introduce the 1860 Army model. The Dragoon nevertheless saw extensive service on both sides in the Civil War.

RO's Corner: CODY/DIXON CATEGORY

You may have a “big bore” rifle, but hardly ever get a chance to shoot it. Or maybe you have been shooting cowboy action for a long time and are looking for something a little different to try. The Cody/Dixon category may be just what you need. You shoot the same scenarios as everyone else on the posse except for the rifle targets. A Cody/Dixon shooter uses a “big-bore” rifle and shoots at rifle targets that are farther out than the standard rifle targets.

Because the ammunition for these rifles is more expensive than pistol caliber ammunition, each stage is shot using six rifle rounds only. All shots are fired from an off-hand, unsupported position.

The name Cody/Dixon is based on two well known “Old West” shooters. Buffalo Bill Cody, known for his abilities with a lever-action rifle, and Billy Dixon, famous for his long-range shot at Adobe Walls with a single-shot rifle. There are two classes in the C/D category: the Cody class, which requires the use of a “big bore”, lever-action rifle, and the Dixon class, which requires the use of a “big bore”, single-shot rifle.

Examples of these rifles include the Winchester Model 94 (lever) and 1885 (single-shot).

Cody/Dixon shooters shoot the pistol and shotgun targets, in the same order, as everyone else in the posse. It makes no difference whether the C/D shooter uses one hand or two, smokeless or black powder, a hammered double or a pump shotgun, or a traditional or modern class pistol.

Rules for the category are few and simple, but firm. See the C/D rules below for further explanation of what types of rifles and calibers are acceptable and specific loading instructions.

This is your chance to use that “big bore” long-range rifle that spends most of its time in the safe. Everyone shoots C/D has a really good time. Try it; you won't be sorry.

Cody/Dixon Rules

- All shooters must wear period-correct (1860–1899) hat, boots and clothes.
- Rear sights must be period correct (1860-1899), and may be either barrel mounted open iron sight, or a tang mounted adjustable sight. Front sights may vary from simple blades to hooded types with interchangeable inserts. Spirit levels are okay. Optical or receiver mounted sights are not allowed.
- Rifles must be of a design and a model readily available prior to 1899. Lever- action rifles must be tube fed, with an exposed hammer. Marlin 336's and 1895's are allowed. Single-shot rifles must have an exposed hammer. Spring-loaded ejectors are not allowed, except for Trapdoors. Savage 99's, Ruger #1's, modern H&R's, or any “Little Sharps” rifles allowed.
- Rifle cartridges must be of at least .30 caliber, and be a center fire, rimmed rifle cartridge that was readily available prior to 1899. The Winchester 30-30 , 32 , 38-55, 40-65, 43 Spanish, and 45-70 Govt. are a few examples. No cartridge smaller than 30-30 Winchester is allowed. Any propellant powder, smokeless or black is allowed. Duplex loads are OK for black. Bullets must be all lead. Paper patched or gas checks are allowed.

- All Rifle shots must be fired off-hand; no leaning, supporting, or resting is allowed. Each stage requires six rifle rounds. Target distances should be between 80 and 125 yards, if range-size allows. Ammunition for single-shot rifles may be staged, loaded from stock-mounted loops made of period correct material, or loaded from the body.
- Lever-action rifles must be loaded with five rounds at the loading table. The sixth round may be staged or on the body and must be loaded on the clock at any time during the stage.
- Any SASS-approved Main Match pistol or shotgun may be used in 12, 16, or 20 gauge.
- Shooting style and powder used is shooter's choice. A shooter can shoot one-handed or with two, use modern or traditional class pistols, shoot smokeless or black powder.
